About me

I am an editor, specialised as 3D artist inclined to product designing. I am well-versed with industry-standard design software, such as Adobe Creative Suite and different 3D softwares. I love to touch and feel different materials and prefer to work with my hands. I like to build and experiment with materials, tools, and techniques. I believe that good design is about understanding the needs of the audience and creating something that resonates with them, not just following the latest trends or using the most expensive tools. Whether you have a new project or want to improve an existing one, I'm here to turn your ideas into reality.
