About Me

A design student passionate about textiles, Indian craftsmanship, culture, history, and nature. I enjoy learning through hands on making from experimenting with materials, dyes and various techniques that bring depth and detail to my work.

My process is rooted in curiosity, material exploration, and a love for creating pieces that reflect both meaning and beauty.

Soft Skills

Skilled in craft research and design thinking, I bring a strong sense of design creativity and a passion for hands-on making. My approach to concept design combines thoughtful exploration with practical execution. Proficient in apparel development, designing patterns, and embroidery, I also have a keen eye for textile design and surface ornamentation, blending traditional techniques to create meaningful and innovative design outcomes.

Technical Skills

Proficient in Illustrator, Photoshop, and Procreate, with a strong command of digital tools for design visualization and development. Additionally skilled in weaving, loom setup, and loom operation, enabling a comprehensive understanding of textile construction and hands-on craftsmanship within the design process.
